The remainder of the day was devoted to running through the docket and disposing of and assigning cases and at 3:15 suspended until Wednesday forenoon.

The first part of Wednesday forenoon was devoted to naturalizing citizens. Those naturalized were Daniel McMaster of Rumford, Daniel Theodore Anderson of Hebron, Alfred Edward Jones of Rumford and Spurgeon Charles Lexton of Rumford.

The first case to come before a jury was the Rumford and Upton, pauper case. This case was tried at the March term of court, went before the law court on 3-15 suspended until Wednesday forenoon. The case was drawn for the hearing and was made up of Stuart W. Goodwin, foreman, A. E. Johnson, Canton; Horace Dinsmore, Norway; F. W. Brown, Lovell; Perley R. T. Bradbury, Denmark; J. Herbert Ring, Fryeburg; Elliott Rich, Bethel; Clayton E. Spang, Brownfield; Treat M. Howard, Dixfield; W. R. Glover, Sumner; Harry E. Jordan, Bethel; Perley Dudley, Buckfield.

The counsel for the town of Rumford was James B. Stephenson and Aretas E. Stearns, for the defendant town, Upton, James S. Wright and Alton C. Wheeler of South Paris.

The case was set forth by J. B. Stephenson, who claimed that the town of Upton owed the town of Rumford for a bill of goods which was provided Mrs. George R. Campbell and the jury was to determine whether George R. Campbell had a pauper settlement in Upton.

George R. Campbell was the first witness in the case. He claimed he came to Upton when about a year old and spent his boyhood there up to the time his mother died, in February 28, 1897. He was married that fall and from the time his mother died for the next few years, he spent a short time in Dallas then a short time at his old home in Upton on Rabbit Knowl, where he claimed his household goods, the goods his mother left him, had remained.

G. L. Douglass of Upton the selectman of the town, showed the tax books and the charges for taxes made against George R. Campbell from the time he was of age up to 1908 with the exception of two years. He also produced the voters list.

F. B. Martin the treasurer of Rumford brought into court the check book showing the date when the town paid $148.50 on account of Mrs. G. R. Campbell.

The defense was begun during the middle of the afternoon, Wednesday. Hon. James S. Wright put the case before the jurors stating that the bill of $147.50 was paid by Rumford to the town of Upton for services rendered Mrs. George R. Campbell, which was admitted as right and proper, but claim that Mr. Campbell had broken his continued residence in Upton.

The principal witness for the defense was the first wife of G. R. Campbell, Mrs. Jennie Steward of Stroud. Her testimony was brought in to prove that Campbell had not held a continued residence in Upton. She and Campbell were married October 8, 1897, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Campbell at Dallas. She had known him as a child as he came to her home and on June 14, 1897 she became engaged to him and with the consent of her parents they were married, she being less than 13 years of age. She claimed that an arrangement had been made with her folks, that if she married him they were to stay there at her home so she could be at home and attend school. Soon after their marriage they went to her sister's and from then on made trips back and forth from Upton to Dallas and Andover. She claimed the only furniture there was on the Rabbit Knowl place was an old straw bed on the floor in the corner, a chair back nailed to a box, home made crock legged table and an old stove, also a few old broken dishes. Here they spent the winter of 1897-98 and moved from there in the spring to the Lane house, then to Dallas again.

Fred O. Godwin of Albion formerly a store keeper at Upton, testified that he knew Campbell and bought sheep from about 1898 and that Campbell told him he was going to move away.

There were several other witnesses to testify in the case before it would come to the jury.

Stuck in Main Street Mud.

Just think of it! Two autos stalled in the mud six times last Saturday at the junction of Main and Cottage street.

Is there any doubt about the sanity of Ralph Butts in circulating a subscription paper last spring among the public spirited Norway citizens to raise money to keep Main street passable.

None in the least.

Rare Books.

On account of the great interest that he has in the spiritual welfare of his friend, Captain Charles Dunham of South Paris, was recently presented to Judge C. F. Whitman a rare copy of a religious work by Rev. Samuel Hutchinson, who for a period lived in the town of Buckfield, where Mr. Whitman was born.

The book is a small volume of some 200 pages, and was printed by Asa Barton at Norway in 1827. It had moved the name of the Oxford Observer from Paris Hill to this village by ox team in the night.

Mr. Whitman is trying to procure a copy of the "Breches" bible, which is one of the rarest editions of the sacred book in existence to preserve his sincere regards to Captain Dunham.

Her parents came here from "Palmonoth" and Quakers. They made the journey from Quakers here, soon after they were married, coming all the way on horseback. The first house was a log cabin standing on the opposite side of the road from the present dwelling, where several of the older children were born, but Mrs. Ryerson, being the youngest but one, was born in the house now standing.

CONANT VS. G. T. RY.

The law court has handed down a rescript in the Oxford County case of Albert A. Conant versus the Grand Trunk Railway company, giving judgement for the defendant.

Action on the case to recover damages to a Ford automobile resulting from a collision between it and the defendant's train, on September 27, 1912, at above five o'clock in the afternoon, at Hicks Crossing, in the town of Norway. The case comes up on report of the evidence.

The automobile came along the street toward the crossing at the rate of about twenty miles an hour and struck the side of the tender on the crossing causing the damage complained of. The evidence shows conclusively that there was gross carelessness in the management of the automobile as it approached the crossing, and that all the people in it were negligent.

The evidence shows that the required signals by whistle and the ringing of the bell were given by the train as it approached the crossing.

Where no request has ever been made of a railroad corporation under Revised Statutes Chapter 51, Section 71, to maintain a flagman, or gates or automatic signals at a railroad crossing, the railroad company is not to be held negligent, as a matter of law in not maintaining such.

Dunn-Upton.

The remainder of the day was devoted to running through the docket and disposing of and assigning cases and at 3:15 suspended until Wednesday forenoon.

The first part of Wednesday forenoon was devoted to naturalizing citizens. Those naturalized were Daniel McMaster of Rumford, Daniel Theodore Anderson of Norfork of Hebron, Alfred Edward Jones of Rumford and Spurgeon Charles Lexton of Rumford.

The first case to come before a jury was the Rumford and Upton, pauper case. This case was tried at the March term of court, went before the law court and a new trial granted. A special jury was drawn for the hearing and was made up of Stuart W. Goodwin, foreman, A. E. Johnson, Canton; Horace Dismore, Norway; F. W. Brown, Lowell; Perley R. Bradbury, Denmark; J. Herbert Ring, Greenwood; Elliott Rich, Bethel; Clayton E. Spring, Brownfield; Treat M. Howard, Dixfield; W. R. Glover, Sumner; Harry E. Jordan, Bethel; Perien Dudley, Buckfield.

The counsel for the town of Rumford were James B. Stephenson and Aretas E. Stearns, for the defendant town, Upton, James S. Wright and Alton C. Wheeler of South Paris.

The case was set fourth by J. B. Stephenson, who claimed that the town of Upton owed the town of Rumford for a bill of goods which were provided Mrs. George R. Campbell and the jury was to determine whether George R. Campbell had a pauper settlement in Upton.

George R. Campbell was the first witness in the case. He claimed he came to Upton when about a year old and spent his boyhood there up to the time his mother died, in February 28, 1897. He was married that fall and from the time his mother died for the next few years, he spent a short time in Dallas then a short time at his old home in Upton on Rabbit Knowl, where he claimed his household goods, the goods his mother left him, had remained.

G. L. Douglass of Upton the selectman of the town, showed the tax books and the charges for taxes made against George R. Campbell from the time he was of age up to 1908 with the exception of two years. He also produced the voters list.

F. B. Martin the treasurer of Rumford brought into court the check book showing the date when the town paid $148.50 on account of Mrs. Geo. R. Campbell.

The defense was begun during the middle of the afternoon, Wednesday. Hon. James S. Wright put the case before the jurors stating that the bill of $147.50 was paid by Rumford to a Rumford hospital for services rendered Mrs. George R. Campbell, which was admitted as right and proper, but claim that Mr. Campbell had broken his continued residence in Upton.

The principal witnesses for the defense was the first wife of G. R. Campbell, Mrs. Jennie Steward of Strong. Her testimony was brought in to prove that Campbell had not held a continued residence in Upton. She and Campbell were married October 3, 1897, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Campbell at Dallas. She had known him as a child as he came to her home and on June 14, 1897 she became engaged to him and with the consent of her parents they were married, she being less than 13 years of age. She claimed that an arrangement had been made with her folks, that if she married him they were to stay there at her home so she could be at home and attend school. Soon after their marriage they went to her sister's and from there on made trips back and forth from Upton to Dallas and Andover. She claimed the only furniture there was on the Rabbit Knowl place was an old straw bed on the floor in the corner, a chair back nailed to a box, home made cross legged table and an old stove, also a few old broken dishes. Here they spent the winter of 1897-98 and moved from there in the spring to the Lane house, then to Dallas again.

Fred O. Godwin of Albion formerly a store keeper at Upton, witnessed that he knew Campbell and had bought sheep from about 1898 and that Campbell told him he was going to move away.

There were several other witnesses to testify in the case before it would come to the jury.

Stuck in Main Street Mud.
Just think of it! Two autos stalled in the mud six times last Saturday at the junction of Main and Cottage street.

Is there any doubt about the sanity of Ralph Butts in circulating a subscription paper last spring among the public spirited Norway citizens to raise money to keep Main street passable. None in the least.

Rare Books.
On account of the great interest that he has in the spiritual welfare of his friend, Captain Charles Dunham of South Paris, was recently presented to Judge O. P. F. Miller a rare copy of a religious work by Rev. Samuel Hutchinson, who for a period lived in the town of Buckfield, where Mr. Whitman was born.

The book is a small volume of some 200 pages, and was printed by Asa Barton at Norway in 1827, who had moved the plant of the Oxford Observer from Paris Hill to this village by ox team in the night.

CONANT VS. G. T. RY.

The law court has handed down a rescript in the Oxford County case of Albert A. Conant versus the Grand Trunk Railway company, giving judgement for the defendant.

Action on the case to recover damages to a Ford automobile resulting from a collision between it and the defendant's train, on September 27, 1912, at above place, in the afternoon, at Hicks Crossing, in the town of Norway. The case comes up on report of the evidence.

The automobile came along the street toward the crossing at the rate of about twenty miles an hour and struck the side of the tender on the crossing causing the damage complained of. The evidence shows conclusively that there was gross carelessness in the management of the automobile as it approached the crossing, and that all the people in it were negligent.

The evidence shows that the required signals by whistle and the ringing of the bell were given by the train as it approached the crossing.

Where no request has ever been made of a railroad corporation under Revised Statutes Chapter 51, Section 71, to maintain a flagman, or gates or automatic signals at a railroad crossing, the railroad company is not to be held negligent, as a matter of law in not maintaining such.

The Last Pipeful of Sickle Is as Fresh as the First

Real tobacco flavor depends upon the leaf being preserved in its natural state, possible only by pressing the leaves into plug form and keeping it in by covering it with a natural leaf wrapper. The natural flavor and strength of tobacco escape when cut or granulated.

Take a Plug of Sickle that is even thoroughly dried out so that when you whittle it off it crumbles into dust, but it will burn and smoke smooth and cool as it has all of its original tobacco flavor preserved, unevaporated in Plug Form.

Whittling a pipeful is little trouble, amply repaid in both quality and quantity. Try this experiment and judge for yourself.

A RECENT VISIT TO A CITY EAR AND EYE SPECIALIST.

I recently visited Portland. Went in an auto as a gentleman should and passed out ten cigars to my friend, while at home a less expensive smoke will do. This is eminently proper if it does add to the increased cost of living which is so much harped upon these days.

Riding in an expensive car and smoking a cheap cigar isn't good form. Don't do it. I didn't do it this trip. Don't never intend to unless possibly I might ride in a Ford, where I understand the fumes of a cheaper grade of tobacco will mix with gasoline. Not on a Reo and this was the car conveying me to the greatest seaport city on the coast of Maine.

The car was owned and driven by Dr. Geo. M. Whibley, 700 Congress street. He isn't a pill vendor, but a back breaker, after the school of Dr. Still of Missouri, where he studied three or four years to learn how to do it in the improved way called Osteopathy.

He didn't open the "cut out" coming up the Poland Spring House grade and consequently the sign that stared you in the face there to "shut-out cut-outs" was meaningless to him.

Beautiful scenery here and the Rickers own as far as the eye can reach and more to say nothing about the water that boils up from the earth and is sold for 30 to 50 cents a pint in big cee as prevalent here makes me shudder, cities the world over.

Such houses, well kept lawns and I felt the relator was stringing me and for once kept my mouth shut and was silent and I am to remain so. I pass it up as out of my class.

In due time we arrived in Portland and the good doctor showed me some of the beauty spots in the city. There are many of them and the drive about the town was exceedingly interesting but I felt nervous and somewhat out of place and glad when I got into the house away from the throng of people and the bustle of commerce.

No city life for me. The bucolic bleating of sheep in the wilderness has charms and a freedom not found in lovely Portland where expensive drapery are hung in the windows to keep neighbors from making unkind remarks about what you have on the table to eat. Give me the country, but then you sometimes have to go to the big town.

I went to please the Mrs. She has been accusing me of growing deaf and dumb in and out of season to check the growing infirmity regardless of the fact that I often hear more than she wants me to.

So here I was calling on a noted ear and eye expert at 717 Congress street. I did whistle as I mounted the stone steps to his house that wouldn't do. I was smoking an expensive cigar as I pushed the celluloid button that woke up the inmates of the dismal house.

A modest appearing girl came to the door and I bowed stiffly and clumsily took off my hat as it is the way of the city. She told me the doctor was at home and showed me into a big room to the right that was pretty nearly barren of anything modern except copies of Elbert Hubbard's East Aurora publications.

She deftly asked my name and residence as she intuitively knew I was from somewhere and timidly I told her I was "F. W. Sanborn of Norway, Me." She disappeared with a cabinet filing card in her hand and I began sizing up an individual who was nervously holding down a chair, the antiquity of which preceded the Christian Era by some hours.

The man was soon summoned into the interior by the smiling doctor who spoke some reassuring words to me.

I listened intently to a low inaudible conversation and the rattling of instruments, the drawing of shutters and shuffling of feet. A few minutes later two ladies and a small child were shown in by the lady attendant, who had been busy addressing circulars or letters on an old desk which would be a disgrace to any deserted attic up in Oxford County. The desk was neither convenient to work on or good looking and its only claims for being housed was its apparent age.

These new arrivals said they thought it strange they were sent here to be doctored when they had come to the hospital where they supposed they had doctors a plenty who could do things. They talked with each other in a deprecatory way while the child played with a white goat or small horse under the ancient legs of a thing doing duty as a center table. On it was a portion of a junk shop, iron ware and pottery flanked by Roycroft literature and medical journals. I looked over and read a page or two in the Fra and wondered if Elbert and Alice's bodies would wash ashore so their faces might again be photographed. I am sorry they are gone as they were good and useful people and their places can never be filled.

I obeyed the call of the doctor I passed into the inner room. I did not ask him if he could help me but I wanted to put him wise as to the real condition of my hearing so if future necessity required, I could use his testimony against the Mrs. assertions of my deafness.

I was set in a chair surrounded by a startling array of unknown appliances which glistened and sparkled in the feeble light. A stack of implements were being washed and put in order by the younger lady before mentioned. Probably these were used on the patient who preceded me. This done she goes to the filing case and picks out three cards and lays them face up on the desk, bows politely and leaves the room.

The learned specialist plies me with questions and asks if we have long lived in Norway and if I know the late Frank A. Noble of Waterford, who was a relative of his wife and that he was on visiting terms with them. We replied in the affirmative and spoke kindly and truthfully of the good qualities of Mr. Noble's family.

He made sounding of our hearing and wrote down what he found on a filing card. A tuning fork was held to one ear and moved until I failed to detect its vibrations and markings were made on the card. A monstrous fork, bright and shiny was substituted for the smaller one, ticking of a watch, and the calling of numbers at various and sundry distances. After each examination pencil marks were made on the card.

The doctor was busy, smiling and good natured all the while looking wise and forceful. He placed a looking glass over an eye, which made him look frightful and proceeded with spoons, pinchers and iron bars to examine my throat and ask questions about the catarrh affliction of the head, etc. A probe holding cotton was run through the nostrils down into the throat and the passages swabbed out much as you would clean a gun barrel.

An electric light was passed through the nose into the throat and by the aid of mirrors an observation was taken of the internal hearing machinery therein contained.

It choked me some but not bad. A rubber tube with a nipple on either end was used. One end of the tube was placed in my ear and the other in the ear of the doctor. A hollow metal funnel properly bent was inserted through the nostril and worked round in the recesses until it entered the eustachian tube and a collapsible air bulb placed on the funnel and the air driven in and my internal hearing machinery was expanded. The theory being this would aid in conducting the sounds gathered up by the external ear.

I felt a fullness in both ears for a few hours which gradually faded away. The kind doctor separated me from five dollars for 27 minutes work and requested me to call again for another treatment within two weeks for which the price will be $2.00. I expect to go and see the Mrs. along with me as it is an open secret in this office that she is an editor of this paper hears and prints only about half the news that's going. I want the whole of it and our subscribers who pay their money in advance are entitled to it.

I am happy in saying my hearing has improved and I am now able to tell a Ford car from other makes of cars by sound provided both car are running in the same direction.

In Bad Shape but Hopeful of Recovery. Friend Sanborn:

The marked copy of your paper came yesterday and while I was not particularly impressed with the personal notice, yet I enjoyed the rest of the sheet. Anytime you feel that you can afford to donate a copy, it will be gratefully received. I will give you a correct list of my ailments so you can make a correct diagnosis of my illness, condition and chances of recovery.

My right lung is all shot to pieces; I have a constant, hacking, racking cough; am troubled with attacks of acute pleurisy in the t. b. side of my body; my heart is out of plumb and kilter; have developed a hernia on the left side of the abdomen from coughing; have a chronic appendix on the right side; my liver gets out of kilter; my kidneys are bad; my spine is lame and sore from being confined to the bed so much; my stomach has gone back on me; my abdomen is sore from coughing and my throat raw from the same cause; my voice sounds like one of those old worn wax phonograph records and I weigh less than 90 pounds. Outside of the above I believe I am all right every way.

Sincerely,
P. S. Excuse me I forgot, I have a hard corn on the little toe of my right foot.

Glenwood

Glenwoods are always Brim Full of New Wrinkles

The Glenwood Balanced Baking Damper is far ahead of any other—it is as positive as the turning of a railroad switch—open to start the fire, closed to bake—just this one damper for kindling or baking and best all, it can't warp or stick.

The Glenwood Revolving Coal Grate is easy to shake at all times, and simply fine for removing clinkers. It is triangular in shape, with three different sides for wear.

The Glenwood Sectional Top is interchangeable—cross pieces can not warp—a wash boiler can be placed at the back as well as in front for quick heating, leaving the front holes free for cooking.

The Glenwood Shelf Under Oven Door is not stationary—it automatically raises and lowers as oven door is opened or closed. It is always level with oven bottom—a great convenience when basting meats or removing food.

The Ash Pan rests on a roller bearing frame—just open door and it rolls out at the slightest touch, neat and clean.

Glenwood Iron is smooth and perfect—the easiest of any to clean—a real delight to the most exacting housekeeper.

RHEUMATISM ARRESTED

Many people suffer the tortures of lame muscles and stiffened joints because of impurities in the blood, and each succeeding attack seems more acute until rheumatism has invaded the whole system. To arrest rheumatism it is quite as important to improve your general health as to purify your blood, and the cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion is nature's great blood-maker, while its medicinal nourishment strengthens the organs to expel the impurities and rebuild your strength. Scott's Emulsion is helping thousands every day who could not find other relief. Refuse the alcoholic substitutes.

HIRAM

Mrs. Eli Clemons since the recent death of her husband is with her daughter, Mrs. Herbert Moulton. Byron A. Mead of Everett, Mass., and Angie Louise Bradford of Roxbury, Mass., were recently married, both formerly of Hiram. The Twitchell Champlin corn shop earned 175,000 ears of corn, which is very much less than average yield. Roger Wadsworth, who has been ill, is improving. There is a large force of men at the Calvin F. Clemons farm working at the portable mill and timber lot. Robert K. Brazier, who was 87 years old on May 19th, is still at his shoemaking bench, doing good work and a lot of it. He holds the Boston Post gold-headed cane, being our oldest man. He is said to be the only surviving member of the first Republican Convention ever held in Maine, it being in 1854. Mr. and Mrs. William Sargent have removed to Smith's Mills.

IRRITABLE CHILDREN OFTEN NEED KICKAPOO WORM KILLER

There is a reason for the disagreeable and fretful nature of many children. Think of the unrest when the child's body is possessed by tiny worms sapping its vitality and clogging its functions. Whatever may be the cause—be it child's peevishness and irritability has a cause. Give Kickapoo Worm Killer a chance and if worms are there this humanly harmless remedy will eliminate the annoying parasites. 25c. a box 39-42-43-45

Here's New Vigor For Overworked Stomachs

The Noyes Drug Store, the popular drug store, have been in the drug business long enough to have their own opinion of the best way of selling medicines. They say the plan adopted by Mi-o-na, the great dyspepsia remedy, is the fairest they have ever heard of. They don't believe that a medicine ought to be paid for unless it does the user some good. And Mi-o-na is sold under a positive guarantee to relieve dyspepsia or to refund the money. You simply leave 50 cents on deposit with the Noyes Drug Co., and if, after you have used the box of Mi-o-na you decide that it has done you no good, all you have to do is to tell them so and they will return your money.

Hundreds of people have been relieved of stomach agonies by using this remarkable remedy. It is not simply a food digester; it is a medicine that puts all of the digestive organs into normal condition and gives ruddy, glowing, vigorous health. A change for the better will be seen after the first few doses of Mi-o-na, and its continued use will soon give the power to eat anything at any time and not suffer distress afterward. Use Mi-o-na and see how much more there is in life. 42-43

PAINT NOW

If you ought to have painted last year and waited, how much do you think you mule?

You'll buy an extra gallon this year. There's $5 or $6 for paint and labor. You think you won't, but you will; you can't stretch paint.

It is always so: the longer you wait, the more paint and wages. Besides what is paint for? What is it for?

HASTE MAKES WASTE

Think this Over

Don't hurry through your meals. Chew your food before you swallow it; your stomach has no teeth. Hasty eating may save time, but it wastes health. Stop the "Quick meals" habit. Start your stomach right by carefully selecting proper food, and eating slowly. Once in awhile your stomach may call for help. When it does, "L. F." Atwood's Medicine is what it needs. Use this family remedy faithfully, and you will escape bilious attacks, sick headaches, indigestion and constipation. We know it is good for the stomach, because thousands have told us so. Here is a remedy worth its use. Buy a 35c bottle at your nearest store, or write today for a free sample. FREE—On receipt of a yellow outside wrapper with your opinion of the medicine, we will send one of our Needle Boats with a good assortment of high grade needles, useful in every family.

Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman L. Wyman of South Woodstock, observed the 50th anniversary of their wedding, Thursday, October 7th. The day was given to entertaining their friends.

They have been planning for this for a year and more and aimed to do every thing in their power to make a happy social time for all their friends and relatives. A few special invitations were sent out and then a general invitation was extended through the local papers and various societies.

When the day arrived the sky was overcast and a drizzly rain made a disagreeable outlook to everyone for the success and pleasure of the coming event. But Mrs. Wyman was never a woman that was easily discouraged, but would rather look on the bright side and so in this case she said, "Well, some will come, and sure enough some did."

Towards noon the rain ceased and while Old Sol was loth to show his face yet he did glimmer very faintly a few times and the people began to arrive until about 125 were present to congratulate the aged couple.

Among the relatives who were present were: Mr. and Mrs. Eli Perkins of Delhi, Iowa; Austin W. Perkins and his son, Luther of Winthrop, Iowa; William E. Perkins of Everett, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Perkins of Andover; Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Chase, Berry and the three sons and the wives of the two who are married, from Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edwards of South Paris; Mrs. May Pride and daughter of Norway and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Perkins of Woodstock were all cousins of Mrs. Wyman. Remarks by Comrade Brown was a review of their soldier life. They enlisted in Co. F, 9th Maine regiment, and were in the service four years taking part in the engagements at Cold Harbor, Petersburg, Maxim Island, Deep Run and others. He received a bullet wound in the leg which laid him up for three months. Mr. Wyman has some souvenirs of the great struggle of both Union and rebel bullets.

Hon. E. C. Perkins, who not only has been a successful lawyer, but also a member of the state senate, spoke of his native home among these same hills and how fifty years ago he left for the West thinking to find a broader field for work and how two years ago he had returned for a visit and how deeply impressed he had been when he saw the improvements that Mr. Wyman had made on his hillside farm, that success could come to one who patiently stayed in his native town. Mr. and Mrs. Perkins promised their cousins when here on their visit two years ago, that if all was well they would return at this time and help them celebrate their golden wedding on "Pleasant Valley Farm," the name which greets one at the turn up the drive way to visit Mr. Wyman's well known fruit and berry farm.

It has for many years been renowned as one of the best fruit farms in Oxford Co., situated on the hillside in Woodstock over looking the pleasant little village of West Paris, a little more than a mile away. He has made a specialty of the fruit business since 1853. Since then he has been adding trees until now he has 1000 bearing apples and dozens more bearing pears and plums. Baldwin and Ben Davis are the chief varieties, the latter are principally sent to England. He has also three acres of raspberries and on of blackberries under cultivation at the present time. Last year 2000 quarts of raspberries were harvested.

Mrs. Wyman has always assisted in the small fruit business until the last year or two. She is a woman nearly 80 years old and crippled with rheumatism now. She has always been very active in the home work taking up side lines such as sewing for the soldiers and then palm leaf hats. But for the past 18 years she has been employed in making Maybaskets and has acquired quite a reputation making each season five or six hundred of these pretty flowers that she makes are characteristic of herself. She loves the delicate shades of the paper and since she is not able to help in the domestic of the house, the light fancy work of the Maybaskets, give employment to her never idle fingers.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Wyman are fond of social life and they keep in touch with the times so that one to hear them converse would not place them anywhere near the 80 year line as they actually are. Beside the farm interests already mentioned are Mr. and Mrs. W. Wyman and his "side line." Mr. and Mrs. Wyman had a daughter, Cora, wife of W. E. Lurney, who died about two years ago and a son above mentioned, who came to the home farm to take up and share the burdens and provide with his father and built a new pretty modern home for himself and wife, near the home buildings and he has put in a line of poultry raising of the Rhode Island Red variety of which he has about 175 pullets. During the summer he has destroyed many of the harmful bugs and worms and also assist in the cultivation.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyman were both successful school teachers in their younger days. He married Mary Augusta Perkins, daughter of Ernest E. Ward. Mr. Perkins of Woodstock, October 8, 1865, on Sunday and the Tuesday following they went to their present home to live. The old house has been improved as time went on and a few years ago a nice new barn was built. They were members originally of Franklin Grange at Bryant's Pond and after the West Paris Grange was organized, they took up their membership here and where Mr. Wyman has served as secretary for several years. Mrs. Wyman too has served as lecturer and is not slow at writing poems.

They also have been members of the North Paris Baptist church for a good many years. Mr. Wyman is a member of the United Baptist Mission Circle at West Paris and serves her turn in furnishing the program. The two original poems were fine and your correspondent hoped to be able to furnish them with this account. However we may be able to do so later on.

The music on the program is to be commended also the reading by Mrs. Bidon. Everything was so in harmony and keeping in memory of the fifty wedded years that all was very beautiful. The songs by Austin Perkins now an aged man of 70 or more years, deserves especial mention. He sang without accompaniment a big strong old fashioned voice that was very pleasing and the only number on the program which received an encore. Being a Western man his first song was a "take off" on the Pony Binder and the story told in song of how a couple got married by going through a Pony Binder or the "Knot was Tied" was very amusing. He was also a veteran like Mr. Wyman and had taken in the National Encampment at Washington on his way here so his second song was a sad account of the Battle on Shiloh Hill.

Mr. Wyman who always says the right thing in the right place, heartily thanked the people present for their attendance, and for their many gifts, all of which showed what a lot of friends he had and how much he appreciated them.

After the program a bountiful lunch of cakes and hot coffee was served on the lawn to all. The table was very prettily decorated with flowers, and there were two boxes of paper roses, made by Mrs. Wyman, souvenirs to each guest. The wedding cake made by Mrs. Lurney was a rich fruit cake frosted in yellow with the dates 1865-1915 put on in white. Everyone received a very generous slice.

The gifts were many, beautiful and appropriate. About 70 dollars in money were among them, 45 dollars being in gold pieces. Other gifts were linen, pictures, china, a gilt jardiniere and large vase. All reported a very lovely time. Many more would have been present if the day had been a little more pleasant.

Mrs. Wyman wore at her golden wedding reception a very pretty and becoming gown made of drab silk poplin with a little white vest and collar and a turned down round collar of beautifully tatted work, made by a friend for a wedding present. Following is the poem composed and read by Mrs. E. C. Perkins of Iowa:

Here in the meadow glow of mild October,
Before the wind of gray November chills,
And turns to brown the leaves all gold and crisp,
That clothe in beauty the New England hills,
I see, where the orchards blossomed in the springtime,
Where countless fruits were gathered in the fall;
Where golden sunshine fills the happy valley
Like God's own benediction over all.
Here in this quiet home of peace and plenty,
We come with songs of thankfulness and praise.
To help you celebrate your Golden Wedding,
This morn'g we bring you life-day of days.
Not unto many mortals is it given,
For fifty years to travel side by side;
The joys the sweeter for the dear communion,
The very sorrows less and sanctified.
A half a century of patient labor
Has made a garden of the mountain sod;
A half a century so near to nature
Has drawn you closer unto nature's God.
Oh! beautiful the lives, that filled completely
With contentment, purity and truth,
Have reached with joy, life's golden-land
October,
And thus fulfilled the promises of youth.
Not in the ways you once had thought to follow,
Not by the streams where once you thought to rest;
But by a path whose every step was upward,
Your God has led you and He knows best
From the fair, golden west, I bring you greetings,
From Iowa's broad fields of waving corn,
From the wide sweep of Mississippi's waters,
I come to hail your Golden Wedding morn',
And though the future years be few or many,
And whosoever your flatterer feet may trodden,
I pray that God will have you in his keeping,
That He, at least, will bring you safely home.

SWEDEN.
